EDITOR'S DAY.

Every dog has his and this is ours.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Aug. 28.—Responding to the general invitation extended by President Bennett H. Young to the press of Kentucky, supplemented by a personal letter to visit the city as the guest of the Great Southern Exposition, we took the L. & N. Express at the solemn hour of 2:30 A. M. Wednesday and arriving here on time, have since been enjoying the fatted calf killed in honor of the Association. Of 80 odd passengers on our train more than 40, Conductor J. W. Brown told us, had Exposition tickets, a fact which shows that the exhibition is already attracting the wide-spread interest it so eminently deserves. Besides a display that challenges the admiration of every visitor, the management is constantly offering special attractions and this is called military week. Ten or a dozen crack companies are here and since Tuesday have been drilling and going through the motions of war for prizes aggregating $4,500, paid to the best drilled organizations. These drills are conducted on beautiful grounds surrounded by an amphitheatre capable of accommodating 15,000 people, and to-day it was crowded by people from several hundred miles around.

With its varied other features, the county exhibits at the exposition form one of the most interest. Some counties have tried themselves in making theirs as complete and attractive as ever, while others have done but little. Lincoln is away behind and we were really mortified at the smallness of her exhibit, when we were so well aware that with a little enterprise on the part of her farmers and others she could excel even the best. Again we call their attention to the fact that we will receive anything of interest from them delivered and properly displayed without a cent's cost to them.

With due appreciation of our assistance in informing the people of the scope, beauty and attractiveness of its great undertaking, the Exposition management has been lavish with its hospitalities. It not only procured from the railroads passes for its guests to come on, but the hotels and other public places, the street car lines and—(no not the bar-rooms; we don't often drink, either collectively or individually) have all been thrown open to us. And today at 1 o'clock a lunch, as it was called, but in reality a banquet, was spread for us at the Park Restaurant on the grounds, after stirring addresses of welcome had been made by President Young on the part of the management and Col. E. Polk Johnson in behalf of the city press. These were responded to in his usual happy style by Col. Stedward Johnston, our beloved president, and then the time of march to the onslaught.

After the battle on the good things had raged sufficiently, toasts were suggested and responded to as follows:

The State of Kentucky—Response by C. T. Allen.

Headlines—Response by J. R. McChesney.

The German Press—Response by Henry S. Cohn.

The Blue-grass Region—Response by John A. Bell.

The Ladies of Kentucky—Response by John G. Craddock.

The "Pannier Deestrick"—Response by W. W. Grunle.

Eastern Kentucky and Its Future—Response by John T. Hazledrig.

The Editor-at-Large—Response by A. T. Morey.

Southern Kentucky—Response by E. L. Starling.

The Cincinnati Exposition—Response by George M. Ditto.

Tribulations of an Interviewer—Response by Joseph Eakins.

The Press of Louisville—Response by Hawthorne Hill.

Judge W. M. Finley was Toast Master.

All the toasts were happily responded to, though some were a trifle lengthy in expressing themselves.

The editors were then conducted thro' the large building to the grounds, where they witnessed the superior prize drills of the companies. At 8 o'clock the grandest pyrotechnic display ever seen in this country was to have been given, but a heavy rain began falling at 7:30 and it had to be postponed. It has been a delightful day to the boys and one they will not soon forget. A fuller account will be given in Tuesday's issue.

It is said that Blaine's suit against the Indianapolis Sentinel is not his first libel suit.

The Portland (Me.) editor who was sued for libel by Blaine in a heated campaign a few years ago, says that he was not invited to court. It cost him the price of the writ—no more. The suit was dismissed as soon as the election was over and the present suit will go the same way.

It costs $33,000 per year to pay U. S. Senators the mileage allowed by law and each Senator is allowed $125 per year for stationery and newspapers.

A REPUBLICAN paper, the Boston Herald, thus arraigns its party for the treatment of thieves: "Among the things which the supporters of Gov. Cleveland wish to have changed for the better is the policy of the Administration toward the thieves and rascals in the public service. Plundering and cheating by the wholesale and retail have been going on for years in the various departments, as the disclosures and discoveries from time to time have partially revealed. But what guilty man has been punished? One scapegoat was selected for the whisky ring, but not a rascal has been jailed or a dollar recovered of all the Star-route gang and its stealings by the million. Hundreds of millions have melted away in the dissolving views of our navy, but nobody has been caught at the plundering which must be going on. A high defaulting official walks out of jail in the capital and keeps in communication with his friends, but the government does not find him. Petty peculations in the naval and army and postoffice supplies are scarcely a three days' wonder when discovered. The people want an Executive Department that will not be interested, for partisan reasons, in overlooking or 'hushing up' corruption and rascality in the public service, but will go vigorously to work to discover, prevent and punish them. And to secure this there must be a change in the political control of the government."

In the debate a few years ago in Congress, between Ben Butler and John Young Brown, of this State, the latter described him about as well as language would do it. Butler had charged the South with wholesale murder and to this Brown took special exception and said: "Now, again, that accusation has come from one—I speak not of men, but of language, and within the rules of this House—that accusation against that people has come from one who is outlawed in his own home from respectable society; whose name is synonymous with falsehood; who is the champion and has been upon all occasions, of fraud, who is the apologist of thieves, who is such a prodigy of vice and meanness that to describe him would sicken imagination and exhaust invective. In Scotland years ago there was a man whose trade was murder, and he earned his livelihood by selling the bodies of his victims for gold. He linked his name with the crime, and to-day it is known throughout the world as 'Burling.' If I wished to describe all that was pusillanimous in war, inhuman in peace, forbidden in morals, and infamous in politics, I should call it Butlerism."

Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, never had a drop of democratic blood in him, being an old and violent republican, and it is a notorious fact in New York city that he has offered himself for sale in every presidential race since that of 1868. He was treacherous to Tilden, to Hancock and is now even more meanly treacherous to Cleveland. Money secures his editorial space for any cause that is able to pay for the use of it. Ben Butler owns the Sun at present. Hence, Mr. Dana's political course is never a matter of concern to honest men in either party.—[Sunday Argus.]

—W. S. Baldwin has been appointed General Passenger agent of the L. N. A. & C. Railroad.

—Wolford's nomination for reelection was made by acclamation, Bertram having withdrawn. R. E. Puryear was nominated for commissioner of equalization.

—The Western & Atlantic handled in 1883 2,400 car loads of watermelons, worth $350,000. This year the same road handled only 950 car loads, or about 950,000 melons.

—Lynch, the colored chairman of the convention which nominated Blaine for President, has been nominated by the republicans of the Sixth Mississippi District for Congress.

—A young man named Graham was stabbed and killed in Coryel county, Texas. The murderer, his father and the father of the dead man met and quarreled at the grave and all three were killed.

—Mr. Beckett, conductor on the through freight from Lexington to Cincinnati, was seriously if not fatally injured to-day by being knocked off the cars while they were passing through a tunnel about ten miles north of Louisville. He is not expected to recover.

—Judge Charles E. Kincaid, Private Secretary to the Governor, has been appointed by his Excellency to go to Italy and bring back to Kentucky the remains of Joel T. Hart, the sculptor. Mr. Kincaid will leave within the next few days for New York and will sail without delay. No better appointment could have been made.

—The admirers of Gov. Cleveland among republicans have never put him forward as a brilliant man, or one who would make a great noise as President, but as a man who is faithful to the single idea of performing to the best of his ability and honestly the duties of any place to which he is called; as a man who when placed in a position of trust will use it not for his own benefit, to get some other place with, to fill his pocket, to gain some private end, but who will execute the trust for the benefit of those who have created it, honestly and efficiently.—[N. Y. Post.]

There will be paid $3,791,965 to tobacco dealers during the present year as a rebate on the internal tax, which was reduced last year.

LIVINGSTON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—The Livingston Coal Co. are arranging their tip-house so they can load on the L. & N. and K. C. both. They are also increasing their capacity.

—C. W. Phillips, of Lebanon, paid us a visit this week, upon business we presume. Miss Berta Shreve will go to Stanford the 1st of September to attend school at the S. F. C. during the next ten month's session.

—Your correspondent wishes to make some apologies for speaking in the manner he did about the party that explored Wild Cat Mountain last Sunday on horseback. Their equipments were simply first-class in every respect; it was a real nice party and a very enjoyable occasion.

"An Explanation" Explained.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.] Your last issue contained an article in which it gave the club that went from Stanford to Williamsburg, rather a bad name, stating that our club was a lot of pick-up characters. I am satisfied, if you bring the matter to a test, that the character of each member of the club would compare more than favorably with the supposed gentleman that wrote the uncalled-for article. He signed himself "A Lover of the Sport." We are satisfied that he did not make a correct statement there, for he should have signed himself "Hoodlum!" If the gentleman (?) will go with us to-day, his expenses will be paid, including free tickets into the ball grounds for both games. CART. OF THE "PICKED UP NINE"

SWITZERLAND.

AS SEEN BY GEO. O. BARNES

'PRAISE THE LORD'

PREDE JOUX, (on the Jura) CANTON VAUD, SWITZERLAND, July 12th, 1884

Dear Interior:

(Continued from last issue.) Leaving this morning subject, we came to the foot of the great mountain, far up whose dark, fir-covered side we were to have our dwelling place. Here "Jimmy" dismounted from his box; so did we all from our perches, at as frequent intervals as the steepness of the way required which was disagreeably often. Jimmy's "poo-wee" no longer fully availed to excite the tired brutes as they dragged the carriage up the sharp slopes. The whip came promptly in to aid the driver's voice. The road was first-class, reminding me all the way of the lovely turnpike between Lexington and Mayfield; but the grades were heavy, for the mountain was high and steep. We picked wild strawberries en route to beguile the way. They are plentiful and good little things, with the full strawberry flavor, not eliminated by culture, as is too often the case in the mountains of the market. "Calchab" is not always an unmixed good, if Boston does think it everything. At last we were up and emerged on the mountain top, upon a plateau that looked like an exquisite park. It was only a cow pasture, but it was a picture of beauty, all the same. Clumps of gigantic fire and beeches, scattered most artistically over an expanse of greenest grass; vistas inviting to a stroll; higher mountain ranges to right and left, across lovely valleys inviting to a climb with Alpine stock and sketch book; while above the very sky of Italy—for that could not be a deeper blue, nor bear the eye further heavenward through its azure depths.

Our house was that of a Monsieur Corvo, who owns quite a tract of land on this mountain, lives in Lausanne and had only preceded us the day before in arrival at the chalet. Everything is called "chalet" here. It corresponds with ranch in our far West in genuine significance. Monsieur Dufour and his family occupy a chalet a few hundred yards further on, and a little further down the hillside. We are on the very crest. We had to divide forces there for lack of room. Monsieur Corvo owns both farm houses—only the one we are in, is kept for his own exclusive occupancy, while the other is let to a farmer. It was most kind in him to give us a nice room, with clean, pleasant beds and every detail of bedroom comfort fully attended to. The chalet is quite new and quite pretty; built of stone and rubble plastered; finished within in pine—floors, sides, ceilings and odoriferous therewith. I like the wholesome fragrance greatly. Some don't. But I was exactly suited.

Monsieur Corvo is a bluff-spoken, stout gentleman, very short and thick, with gray moustache and red face, quite like what Mr. Dudley Hudson, of Bowie county, was at 60 years. His wife and two younger ladies make up the family; whether his daughters are guests, I did not find out. Just across the low stone fence, that quite runs around the large, park-like yard, the usual Swiss cow barn is built. Here, carefully tended by a corps of men and boys, over fifty cows are cared for; milked morning and evening; and twice a day the milk is turned into cheese. The barn is a great, square, one-storyed, stone structure. A description of one structure answers for all. Everything is carried on under one roof and there is under that roof the queerest mixture of filth and cleanliness, sweetness and nastiness that I ever saw. The great copper boiler, where the milk is heated, is as bright as scoring can make it; the wooden tubs and paddles innumerable, are scrupulously white and purely clean; the cheese-room is dainty and sweet-smelling. But the floor of the factory is a slop of filth, the cobble stones covered with the accretions of the stalls; the odor of 50 cows, tied up by the necks in two long rows from early morning until 6 o'clock P. M., when they are released to graze for the night, is overpowering. The clothes, hands, boots of the men are plastered. When they milk I suppose they do it with washed hands, for the milk is clean and sweet. Men do everything. The strainer is unique and simple. It is a bunch of fir branches thrust loosely into the open bottom of a funnel-shaped tin bucket, thro' which the milk is poured into the great copper cauldron, as fast as rays of milkers can draw it from the cows. The cheeses are about 2½ feet in diameter and six inches thick; weight varying from 60 to 70 lbs. They find a market in France, almost exclusively. Delicious cheese it is, with a buttery smoothness, sui generis. Better than English or American, to my taste. The cows are all belled. Their various adornments of that character hang in two rows, as long as the ranks of the kine, on a rack in front of them. Very musical are these cow bells of Switzerland and we are always in hearing of them. During the day the music is kept up by the half-hundred "young things" that are "coming on" to replace or swell the number of the cows in full milk. These are belled also and the flies see to it that the music is kept up to full "concert pitch" the live-long day. We were specially delighted to hear these "Swiss bell ringers" from the moment we struck Pre de Joux and we like the music better the more we have of it. The bells are not like ours. Some are shaped like a handleless dinner bell of an American boarding-house—the tones of which have so often touched a responsive chord in us all in a region near the heart, yet not of it. Then there is a globe-shaped bell of almost prodigious size, with a most resonant, mellow key. Imagine 50 to 100 of these, going at once, under the vicious stimulus of 10,000 flies, lancing the poor tormented brutes as they grazed, with their bloody bills; each bell with a different note, yet each musically mellow, and you have the chime that salutes our ears by day and deepens our slumbers by night.

The cows are pretty creatures, sleek and fat, with square, flat backs and very thoroughbred forms. Only the horns are plebeian; long, straggling and unsymmetrical. In size, about like our Shorthorns. They are touchingly tame. Handled gently from the first, and accustomed to the touch of man, they come to you and lick your hand, in the pasture, anywhere. They are petted from earliest calfhood. I saw one of the herd boys trying to take a calf a few months old from one place to another and when he did not succeed in driving it, the young thing apparently not knowing what he wanted, he bethought himself of another plan. Running before the little creature, he turned a somersault upon the grass, then sprang up and ran away with a hoop in the direction he wished it to go. The calf understood that. It was a frolic. He stuck his tail straight up in the air, after the fashion of playful calfhood, and broke into a mad gallop after the boy. Then it was a fair race. The boy plied his legs admirably, but calf was too much for him. He overtook the youngster just at the point the wily chap wished his four-footed charge to go, gave a bawl, a kick-up of triumph, then a gentle butt of friendly recognition in the boy's ribs and the game was over. Both had their own way and were friends at the close. Would that all controversies might end as happily. I think they would if we all had the gift of knowing how to drive.

The grass is very fine—equal to our best blue-grass pastures. What a velvet turf one treads upon in these mountain pastures. When one place is closely grazed, the herd moves off to another, where a second chalet abandoned and still while the herd is absent, soon re-echoes with sounds of active life two-footed and four-footed.

The flies are the Alpine pests. They are most numerous biters and they almost run the poor cows mad. I will not say that they are worse than ticks, for these are quiet at night, though villainously early rises. They take to Vernon voraciously, preferring his tender young skin and young body full of the blood they thirst for, to my more toughened, seasoned cuticle. But they penetrate my epidermis far too often. These greedy flies are the only real drawbacks to delicious mountain life that we have yet encountered. Strange and yet not strange that these pestiferous insects should infest such beautiful scenes. Ah, that is it! No place on earth that God has beautified is there where the devil also has not set his mark. "Eelzebub" means "god of flies." The word takes on new meaning on these lovely Jura mountains. His ways are all hateful and unpleasant. The dear LORD'S only are "ways of pleasantness and paths of peace." Ever in Jesus,

GEO. O. BARNES.

According to Sam Rindall's statement at the last session of Congress, $180,160,470.01 was appropriated to pay the expenses of the Government and keep up its credit.

It will cost the Government $50,000 a year to enable the Postmaster General to give the letter carriers the fifteen days leave of absence allowed them by the new law just passed by Congress.

Forty-two silver-plated ice-pitchers and twenty-five plated silver trays are used to supply the U. S. Senators with drinking water, while the employees of the Senate use sixteen water coolers.

The Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives gets a salary of $4,000 and is allowed $500 per year for a horse and wagon for the use of his office. Leedom keeps a fine span of blooded horses, which he bought in Kentucky for his personal pleasure.

The salaries of the members of the House of Representatives amount to $1,005,000 annually, except in the case of a contest, and then, if the contestant is seated, both the member unseated and the member seated get their salaries up to the time the contestant is seated.

Don't Give Up Yet.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover just because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr. Michael Gullfoyle of Birmingham, N. Y., was cured of Rheumatism by it at ten years of unrepentable suffering. Mr. E. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

MARSHAL NEWLAND arrested Chasley Cook, Tuesday, for carrying concealed weapons, two pistols having been found on his colored person. He was tried before Judge Carson on Wednesday and given 20 days in jail and a fine of $50, which in different language is 70 days on the rock pile.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—A dispatch from Uvalde, Texas, states that Sam M. Williams attempted suicide at that place on the 25th by shooting himself four times with a revolver. One shot took effect in the head, ranging from the side to the rear under the skin and another just above the heart, passing through the body, which will probably prove fatal. He had been acting as deputy sheriff for some time and the telegram states that he had made a good officer.

DEATHS.

—Died, of brain fever, Wednesday, Jos. Burns, a little son of Mr. Hugh Burns.
—Mrs. Margaret M. Logan, mother of Dr. P. W. Logan, died at his residence in Knoxville, Tenn., Wednesday night, aged about 80 years. For many years she had been a member of the Presbyterian Church and lived a true christian life. Her remains were brought here this morning on the 25th express and will be interred at 2 P. M. to day in Buffalo Cemetery.
—The news of the death of Mrs. Annie McAllister Johnson, which occurred at her home in Georgetown, was received with sadness by her many friends at this place, the home of her childhood. Truly it can be said that none knew her but to love her, for her sweet and gentle disposition made her a great favorite with the aged as well as the young. Death seems doubly sad when it claims as its own one so young and with such a bright future as was that of Mrs. Johnson. For several years she had been a devoted member of the Baptist church. Her remains were brought over to Danville, Wednesday, where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. P. T. Hale, after which they were laid away in the city of the dead at that place.

RELIGIOUS.

—It is probable that Bishop R. K. Hargrave, of the M. E. Church, South, will make his home in Kentucky and stay in Louisville.

—The meeting at McCormack's church has been one of great interest and some thirty odd had confessed their sinfulness before men up to Wednesday night. The Walnut Flat meeting closed with 7 additions. A protracted meeting is in progress at Goshen church, conducted by Elders Livingston and Collier.

—During the two years' pastorate of Rev. H. C. Morrison at the Methodist church here, which has just closed, there were 50 additions to the membership and the church has been greatly benefited. Considering the wealth of its members, no church contributes more to charitable and other purposes than this, the collections this year amounting to $1,579.65, or about $12 per member.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—Hemp is bringing $5 to $5.25 in Lexington.
—Country sides and hams, butter and eggs wanted by T. R. Walton.
—W. B. Kidd bought last week of J. H. Graves, near Pine Grove 300 cattle at 6c per pound.
—Two valuable pacers, George G. and Princess, collided on the race track at Hartford, Conn., and both were killed.
—FOR SALE.—600 mortising posts, 300 plank posts and 10,000 feet goop fencing plank for sale or trade for good butcher cattle. Williams & Ramsey.
—BANK STOCK FOR SALE.—Fifteen shares in Farmers National Bank of Stanford; 20 shares in First National Bank of Stanford. See M. C. Sautley.
—John A. Judy delivered 300 cattle last week to a Boston party; weight about 1,600 pounds at $6.25. Harry Crawford, of Doyleville, sold last week 100 head of feeding cattle at 5 cents.—(Winchester Democrat).
—About 1,000 cattle on the market at Winchester Monday and sold at slightly reduced prices. Forty feeders of 900 to 1,000 lbs., brought $16.75 per head; yearlings $29.20 to $35; and 3-year old mountain cattle 2 to 3 cents.
—Should the average of the present wheat crop equal that of 1879, 13½ bushels to the acre, the yield will be 513,000,000 bushels, against 420,000,000 bushels last year. The outlook is so promising that the more sanguine are estimating the outcome of the harvest at 555,000,000.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—J. W. Alsmen and Miss Annie Alexander obtained license to marry on the 27th inst.
—The base ball game Wednesday between the Somerset and Danvilles was won by the latter by a score of 30 to 17.
—Wakefield, Farris & Co. delivered to Scroggin, Hudson & Co. Wednesday 20 head 15½-hand mules at $150 each. They were shipped at once to New Orleans. The same firm sold to Sam Shelton a 3-year-old 15½-hand mule at $150.

—Mr. P. A. Marks went to New York Tuesday to be absent about ten days. D. B. Goode has succeeded Gen. S. S. Fry as the partner of G. S. Brown in the coal and lumber business. Mr. G. W. Welsh, of the Farmers National Bank, is confined to his room with flux.

—Joe Gowen and Bob Taylor were tried Tuesday and Wednesday for "ku-kluxing" Louis Faulconer last Saturday night. Both were held for further trial. Gowen gave bond and Taylor went to jail. From the way every inch of ground was contested by the legal gentlemen, a novice might have suspected the case to be one of some importance, when in all probability the circuit court will regard the offence committed as nothing more serious than a breach of the peace.

—The members of the class of 1855 of Centre College have been invited to meet to night at the residence of Mr. C. W. Metcalfe, this city. Quite a number have announced their intention to be present, when no doubt a pleasant reunion will be held. Among those certain to be present are Gov. T. T. Crittenden, of Missouri; Addison Craft, of Holly Springs, Miss.; Hon. J. F. Phillips, of Jefferson City, Mo.; Judge F. T. Fox, of Louisville, and Col. T. Z. Morrow, of Somerset. The following were the names of the class, those marked with a star being reported dead in 1883: Heman H. Allen, T. P. Barbour, G. T. Barrett, W. C. P. Breckinridge, J. Y. Brown, Addison Craft, T. T. Crittenden, T. H. Dittoe, F. T. Fox, Wm. George, T. M. Green, *J. G. Hill, J. O. Hodges, A. J. Irvine, A. C. Kemper, C. W. Metcalfe, T. Z. Morrow, J. Phillips, H. M. Scudder, *J. H. Thomas, *J. H. Thivait, Boyd Winchester, B. S. Woodcock, T. R. Young.

—Judge Durham came home Tuesday night and went to Lancaster Wednesday, where he presided as special judge in two criminal cases in the circuit court. Since speaking here county court day, he and his competitors have met and spoken four times in Shelby, twice in Spencer, and once in Jessamine county. It is annoying to his friends how persistently he is misrepresented on the question of Federal aid to public schools. He is as much in favor of educational advantages being extended to the children of the country as any man that breathes. But while Mr. Thompson is in favor of appropriating money from the U. S. Treasury, and Gov. McCreary is in favor of the appropriation of public lands, for this purpose, Judge Durham thinks the matter of education one that belongs exclusively to the States. While he is in favor of the States giving the most liberal aid, he thinks it unconstitutional and undemocratic for money to be voted from the Federal Treasury for the purpose or for the Federal government to interfere in the matter in any way.

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Tom Royleston and E. L. Dawson got into a scuffle a few days ago and Dawson got one of his legs broken.
—Mr. G. W. Kinnaird has a peculiar kind of dog. He will not eat anything but bread and molasses.
—W. L. Todd sold and delivered to Jao Galoway, of Madison, 52 hogs, averaging 270 pounds, at 5½c. Mr. Todd is one of our best farmers and knows how to treat a hog.
—Mr. Boon Conn, while digging a pool on his farm for stock water, struck a strong stream of salt water. He has ordered pans and is preparing to manufacture salts. It is said to be equal to if not better than the best water at Crab Orchard.
—Last Monday night as Col. D. W. Tribble and Miss Mollie Maury were coming from church, some fast young men came driving by at break-neck speed and ran into Mr. Tribble's buggy, scaring his horse. He began to kick and tore the buggy to pieces and kicked the young lady several times, hurting her severely, but it is to be hoped not dangerously. The Colonel held the horse with one hand and the young lady with the other. By so doing no doubt saved her life.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.
(DELAYED LETTER.)
—A pound party was held at the circuit room Friday evening, but owing to the rain was slimly attended.
—W. S. Miller expects to tear down the one-story brick story rooms north of his hotel and erect thereon two three-story brick buildings, to be used as sleeping apartments.
—The Presbyterian Mite Society will give a party at "Avondale," the home of George Denny, Sr., on Friday night. Some new feature will be introduced, which will be interesting to all who attend.
—The trustees of the Female College have discovered that another building will have to be erected 100x40 feet for dining and piano-room. The work on the building is being rapidly pushed in order to be ready for opening on September 15.
—Mr. J. L. Irvine has secured the services of E. Higgins to assist him in a select school at Franklin Institute. Mr. Higgins attended the Normal school at Lebanon, Ohio, last winter and is fully competent to teach the department assigned him. He will teach book-keeping and will probably assist in the primary department.
—The young men of town gave an elegant impromptu hop at the Mason House Friday evening to the strangers visiting our community. Among those in attendance were Miss Simms, Illinois; Miss Welch, Hickman, Ky.; Miss Wigham, Danville; Miss McRoberts, Danville; Misses Moore, Bryantville, and others. Music by Lexington band.

—A singular accident occurred at E. Brown's lumber yard last Friday morning. While the north-bound freight train was distributing freight a car-load of coal propelled with such force that it ran over the battress at the end of E. Brown's private switch and jumped into the rear end of his store, knocking out one side of the building and damaging his stock of goods. Mr. B. and Wm. Lloyd were in the building at the time and escaped with slight injuries. The goods were removed to the Berkele warehouse across the street.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, By the dispensation of an All Wise Providence, Past Grand E. W. Brown has been removed from us in the meridian of life and in the midst of his usefulness, Resolved, That in the death of our beloved brother, Past Grand E. W. Brown, Odd-fellowship has lost one of its brightest lights and most devoted members; the country of his nativity a faithful, honest and competent official.

2. That no citizen possessed in a more eminent degree than he, personal purity, integrity, justice, truth and honor—virtues which enable the character of a man. And to crown all, christian piety, which in his life and daily walk was manifest to the most casual observer; combinations of character which rendered him dear to all who knew him.

3. That we deeply mourn his loss and tender to his bereaved family our heartfelt assurances of sympathy and condolence.
4. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the Stanford Interior Journal and Danville Advocate for publication and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and that they be spread upon the records of the Lodge.
